I AM HONORED TO BEGIN MY TENURE as Interim Executive Director at this extraordinary moment. With summer having arrived in Boston as we joyfully welcome visitors after a long hiatus, it is a time of hope and renewed energy.

A bit about me: I am an experienced non-profit executive and have had the privilege of serving on numerous boards of directors. Most recently, I worked as the Interim Executive Director at Beyond Conflict, a global organization whose mission is to understand and address the causes and consequences of conflict.

In 2018 and 2019, I worked as the Interim Executive Director at Old South Association, the organization that owned Old South Meeting House. In that role, I helped orchestrate the creation of Revolutionary Spaces, the entity established in January 2020 upon the merger of Old South Association and The Bostonian Society, which managed the Old State House. As you might expect, I am looking forward to learning more about the Library’s collection of papers from Old South Meeting House.

As the daughter and sister of librarians, I already feel right at home at 14 Beacon Street. I look forward to working with and meeting you in the weeks and months ahead.

INTERIM EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
JULY 2021
We want to share the amazing scholarship emerging from our collections, such as Dividing the Faith: The Rise of Segregated Churches in the Early American North, by new board member Richard J. Boles, or the many new entries and recently produced finding guide for materials relating to Black, Indigenous, and People of Color in New England's Hidden Histories, or upcoming discussions on the anniversary of the first Thanksgiving. Please join with us now as we shout it from the rooftops, “History Matters,” today and evermore.

BOARD CHAIR

As we emerge slowly from COVID-19’s year plus of hibernation, we are looking around to assess the damage. The toll has been severe. Lives have been lost. Organizations and businesses have been shaken to the core, some irretrievably so. I am pleased to announce that the Congregational Library & Archives has not only survived the pandemic, but it is emerging as energetic and vital as it was before the pandemic.

In fact, just a few weeks ago, I was amazed to find the Congregational Library & Archives featured in my Google feed. In an article titled “How an old diary is shedding light on smallpox outbreaks from the 1700s,” AP and NBC News highlighted the staff’s insights into the manuscript diary of Ebenezer Storer, 1749–64, one of the diaries CLA has digitized for inclusion in New England’s Hidden Histories. Like a Timex, CLA may have taken a licking, but it keeps on ticking.

That it does so is hardly unexpected to anyone who understands our archives. The shelves of the CLA are rich with stories, testimonies, sermons, letters, and other accounts of how Congregationalists and their fellow citizens have weathered every kind of storm—from literal storms like Hurricane Carol to outbreaks, plagues, wars, even a molasses flood.

Enduring is what we do; so, to those familiar with the indomitable spirit and grit of our forefathers and foremothers, it should come as no surprise to note that during the pandemic shutdown, our library staff, archivists, and historians were far from idle.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I want to express my deep gratitude for their dedication and perseverance since our lives were transformed in March 2020.

It feels nothing short of miraculous that on June 7, our Board of Directors met at 14 Beacon Street for the first time in fifteen months for our annual meeting. We discussed upcoming plans and programs. We took a tour of the CLA’s new state-of-the-art, recently renovated space, and we saw each other smile! How refreshing and encouraging it was to be back in such a special place. And while book and manuscript lovers will perpetually delight in the teeming stacks at 14 Beacon Street, we also celebrate the staff’s ongoing and radical work of transforming words on paper into searchable metadata that allows anyone around the globe to access the Library’s treasures.

While the Congregational Library & Archives has weathered the storm of COVID-19 and continues to be an active, thriving library and archives, like organizations and nonprofits worldwide, it has not escaped unscathed. And so, we appeal to you for your support and participation.
